Political Gossip

Doing Things.

An effort has been made to impress upon the voters of the Second congressional district that Mahan is the "Man That Does Things," and one of these efforts is surely making an impression. He has succeeded in doing one thing that the voters of the whole district are indignant about district are indignant about. He has sent all over the four counties a circular letter telling how bis a man he is and how many things he

He has sent all over the four counties a circular letter telling how big a man he is and how many things he claims to have done. It looks as if he had "done" the government, for he has used his congressman's frank on the envelopes which carry the circulars, although there is nothing of a public nature in the letter and it is solely for his personal advancement.

But that is only one detail of the remarkable incident. These letters, duly franked "Bryan F. Mahan, M. C.," have been generally distributed. The Courant has had envelopes from three of the four counties. The voters of the district know themselves how thoroughly they have been sent about. of the district know themselves how thoroughly they have been sent about. But not one of them has its frank cancelled and not one of them is post-marked! Voters are guessing how the trick was turned. The best guess and far is that they were sent in bulk to the various postoffices and stuck into the mail as they came. Since then they have been going into waste baskets.—Hartford Courant.

He has appeared in the campaign that is now drawing to a close, late, it is true, but he has appeared, in a six passenger automobile in which he is touring New London county, which is evidence that his friendahlp for "the evidence that his friendship for "the workingman" hasn't prevented him from faring pretty well as he has gone along life's journey. Does anybody believe that he is any more the friend of the workingman than any other politician? Does anybody believe his friendship extends any further or desper than to get the votes of tollers? Such brasen subterfuge as that will not deceive anybody. It ought to drive away from the candidate who parades his insincerity in that fay a great many votes.
